

CHOOSE YOUR CHORD

💡 How to use: Click any chord button to see the finger positions on the fretboard and hear the chord sound.

Right-Hand Guitar Skills

In playing the guitar, the right hand is used to pluck, pick, tap, or strum the strings to make it vibrate into actual sounds.

For beginners, we will only discuss the skill, "strumming" in this lecture. Strumming is plucking more than 1 string in one go with either a guitar pick or your right index fingernail. When we strum, we make more than one string vibrate and produce a sound. The pattern for strumming however, is difficult to teach as it is often as natural as doing headbang, dancing to a beat, or tapping on the desk while listening to some music.

The right hand skills will be taught by your instructor, Mr. Benedict de Jesus face-to-face using an actual guitar. For reviewing, you may use the following metronome app.

Strumming Pattern Metronome